Payment

Unless you have an account with us that include credit terms, we will not provide any services until our charges are paid in full. Payment may be made by bank transfer, credit or debit card (Visa, AMEX or MasterCard). Upon acceptance of this estimate, you will receive an invoice by separate email detailing the charges, with a link to our payment portal to proceed to the payment. If you have any questions about our payment options, please contact your Account Manager.

Liability For Loss Or Damage To Property

No matter how carefully packed and handled, your goods will always be at greater risk of loss and damage when being transported or stored than when at rest in your home or business premises and, if loss or damage does occur, the claim needs to be dealt with. To address this problem, we offer you flexible risk management arrangements which recognize and respond to Your individual preferences; We do not impose a "one size fits all" arrangement unlike many other carriers.

Full Value Liability (Recommended)

Prior to or simultaneous with signing an agreement with Cadogan Tate for storage and/or transportation of goods, you will be required to choose between two levels of liability coverage. If you choose Full Value Liability, you will be required to declare value of the goods to us and pay an additional amount for such coverage, as mentioned in the Estimate or in our Contract Terms & Conditions. Under Full Value Liability, we accept full responsibility (subject to some terms and exclusions) for the cost of any replacement or repair arising from transportation or storage of your goods, up to the full value that you have declared to us. Full Value Liability is subject to specific terms, conditions, and exclusions, and such liability can be set to reflect the value of your consignment, as declared. For further details, please refer to the Full Value Liability section, which appears in our Terms and Conditions attached or enclosed to this Estimate, or contact your Account Manager.

Released Value Liability (Default)

In the interests of keeping your costs to a minimum, our standard "Released Value Liability" limits our liability to: (a) a maximum of 60 cents per one-pound weight, (b) the actual value of your consignment, as declared by You, or (c) $100,000 (U.S.), whichever is less. Released Value Liability is the default liability coverage and applies on all transportation and storage services we render unless You opt for Full Value Liability pursuant to the terms of this Contract. You will be relying on your own insurance, if any, to cover your property beyond our liability limit, and if you contract with us on this basis and do not have adequate insurance coverage in place you may not recover the full value if an item or items are lost or damaged in transit or in storage. You may have insurance through an independent insurer that provides you with coverage over your property while it is being transported or stored. However, you should check your policy carefully as insurance coverage is often limited and subject to exclusions, with claims subject to deductibles and with the possibility of increased future premiums.

We strongly recommend that you take out our Full Value Liability option. If you have not yet done so, then you may still be able to do so. Please contact your Account Manager for more information and a cost estimate.

Note

These two levels of liability are not insurance agreements governed by state insurance laws but instead are contractual levels of liability. This section is intended solely for the purpose of providing a general overview of available liability options offered by us and make you aware of your choices when shipping with us. The terms of this section are not intended to have any legal effect, nor should they be deemed to modify, expand upon, or in any way impact the actual provisions appearing in our Terms and Conditions. Please read our Terms and Conditions carefully before signing this contract.

Personal Data Privacy & Protection

Cadogan Tate processes your personal data in accordance with the applicable data protection laws where we operate. For more information about how we process your personal data, please read our Privacy Notice on Cadogan Tate's website.

Contract Terms and Conditions

You hereby understand and agree that we provide all services subject to your relevant Contract Terms and Conditions which are enclosed with or attached to this Estimate. If you require Full Value Protection, you will declare the value of the consignment and pay us the corresponding charges. If you do not do so, or if you decline Full Value Protection and choose the Released Value arrangement, our liability to you will be limited to $60c per pound only.

Are you ready to proceed?

To confirm that you would like to go ahead, please make sure that you have selected the relevant optional services detailed above in the pricing section, by using the 'Select Option' button. If you have opted for Full Value Protection, please make sure that the value indicated is correct before accepting. Please then confirm your details below, sign and click 'accept'.

If you have any further amendments or questions then contact your Account Manager directly or decline the quote below outlining the reasons why. Our accompanying Terms and Conditions documents are also available to help answer any questions you may have.
